RINGWOOD MANOR CLOSED FOR CLEANING FOLLOWING FURNACE MISFIRE

Ringwood Manor, the historic country house at the heart of Ringwood State Park, will be closed for the remainder of the winter to allow for cleanup of soot released by a malfunctioning furnace.

The DEP's State Park Service will be working with historical conservators to ensure careful and thorough cleaning of the interior of the Manor House and its artifacts. A forced-air furnace misfired last month, spreading soot through parts of the first and second floors of the historic house.

"This was a most unfortunate event at one of our premier and most popular historic sites," said Amy Cradic, Assistant Commissioner for Natural and Historic Resources. "The State Park Service will take every precaution necessary to ensure the protection of artifacts and the home's interior surfaces during the removal of soot."

Park Service personnel have been meeting with museum emergency response experts to discuss cleanup priorities and will work with qualified conservators during the cleanup process. Ringwood and the Manor House were at the center of American Revolution iron-making. The Manor House, owned in the middle 19th century by ironmaster Abram S. Hewitt, displays an extensive collection of art, furniture and other period artifacts.

Ringwood State Park and other buildings continue to maintain normal operating hours. Tours of the Manor House have been suspended pending completion of the cleanup. Most scheduled programs are taking place in other buildings around the Manor House. The Manor House furnace system is being evaluated for repairs and/or replacement. THE EDITOR'S CORNER

History is alive and well in the Garden State! I am encouraged by the number of counties that have followed the example of Union County.

Union was the first to initiate the idea of having many of its historic sites open on one specific weekend. Its “Four Centuries in a Weekend” program on the third weekend in October has been an inspiration.

Several years ago, the Somerset County Cultural & Heritage Commission, working with colleagues in Union, came up with its own “Weekend Journey Through the Past,” held on the second weekend in October.

Recent years have seen the development of “Weekend in Old Monmouth,” in early May. (See the story on page five.)

Last year the folks in Sussex County held a similar event on the third weekend of October. Plans are underway to repeat this program.

Finally, last year marked the 1st Annual Northwest Bergen County History Day Tour. The Coalition of Northwest Bergen Historical Organizations will host its 2nd such event on Saturday, May 19 from 10 to 4. Eight historical homes and museums will be open to tour and enjoy. In honor of the sesquicentennial of the Civil War, each historical site will feature a special Civil War era exhibit. Visitors will enjoy learning more about the rich history of NW Bergen County as they stop at the following: The Schoolhouse Museum in Ridgewood, (650 East Glen Avenue) The Hermitage in HoHoKus (335 North Franklin Turnpike) The Fell House in Allendale (475 Franklin Turnpike) The Hopper-Goetschius House Museum in Upper Saddle River (363 East Saddle River Road) The Old Stone House in Ramsey (538 Island Road) The Mahwah Museum in Mahwah (201 Franklin Turnpike) The Van Allen House in Oakland (3 Franklin Avenue) The Zabriskie House in Wyckoff (421 Franklin Avenue) (concluded on page twenty-four)

N.J. TO BEGIN SURVEY OF HISTORIC SITE FINANCIAL NEEDS
FIRST SUCH SURVEY IN 22 YEARS

The first state-run survey in 22 years that is intended to determine the potential costs of the repair, restoration or improvements needs of New Jersey historic sites began on February 1st. The Capital Needs Survey is being conducted by the state Historic Trust, which encourages all publicly owned and nonprofit-managed sites to participate in the survey.

"The Historic Trust recognizes that even our state's most notable and celebrated historic sites and attractions have significant needs for repairs and improvements, all of which will ultimately serve the public better," said Community Affairs Commissioner Richard E. Constable. "This survey will help the Trust identify those specific needs and begin to quantify the costs associated with making these historic buildings relevant and useful in their communities."

The survey will end May 1. It will pose questions about a building's use, repair needs, projected repair costs, and, if appropriate, its participation in heritage tourism development. A historic building is defined as a structure that was built more than 50 years ago, or prior to 1962. A property does not need to be listed on the State or National Register of Historic Places to be included in the survey. Among the buildings that may participate are historic residences, farmsteads, factories, theaters, museums, houses of worship, fire houses, libraries, railroad stations, and schools. Buildings owned by private homeowners or businesses are not eligible for this survey.

The first capital needs survey, conducted in 1990, identified more than $400 million. The survey's results helped garner public support for four historic preservation bond referendums in the 1990s, and sustained historic preservation funding from the Garden State Preservation Trust from 2000 to 2010.

This year, the Historic Trust is hoping to attract more participants by making the survey accessible online. "By using the Internet and making the survey easy to complete and submit, we hope to reach as many historic site stewards as possible," Historic Trust Director Dorothy Guzzo said. "The broader the participation, the better picture we will have of the state's real need for historic preservation funding." Upon completion of the survey, the data will be analyzed and the capital needs of the state's historic properties will be tallied and published by the end of the year. The Historic Trust will use the information to prioritize or revise criteria for its program, as well as to alert the community to begin thinking about their future stewardship needs.

The Historic Trust administers grants from the Garden State Historic Preservation Trust Fund, the NJ Cultural Trust Capital Preservation Grant Program, the "Discover NJ History" License Plate Fund and the 1772 Foundation Grant Program for New Jersey.

Since 1990, the Historic Trust has awarded more than $134 million in matching preservation grants to sites in every county of the state. For more information on the Capital Needs Survey visit: http://fs19.formsite.com/NJHT/CapitalNeedsSurvey/index.html.

SAVING THE PRINCETON BATTLEFIELD IS MOVING INTO A NEW STAGE

Over the past several years, the Princeton Battlefield Society has been trying to stop a housing development on the site of a portion of the Princeton Battlefield in Princeton Township. The land in question is owned by the Institute for Advanced Study, which wants to construct housing for its professors. The following was prepared by Kathleen Cherry.

The Princeton Battlefield Society’s effort to save the site of the counterattack from the construction of a housing development has entered a new phase. Having “counted noses” on the Princeton Regional Planning Board, we were not surprised when on March 1, 2012, the board approved the application of the Institute for Advanced Study to build its housing project.

However, we are not deterred and are now getting ready to launch our second phase in response. Bottomline, our “second battle of Princeton” will now become our “third!”

We knew from the start that our efforts before the planning board would be uphill, as it would be highly unusual for board members to turn down a development proposal that its staff essentially had preapproved, especially from an institutional developer. Our counsel, Bruce Afran, had advised us that though we would probably lose before the planning board, our chances would be quite good long-term, and that ultimately we would succeed in overturning this decision in court – particularly if we carefully documented our case before the board.

As we proceeded through four lengthy sessions, we concluded that planning board staff was not prepared to respond to our detailed, thorough challenge of their methodology and analysis of the law. In our presentation, we pointed out what we believe are clear violations of the township’s zoning laws and the 1992 Settlement Agreement between the township and the Institute.

At the same time, Counsel to the Board also did not agree to what we believe were very reasonable requests to subpoena witnesses. These particular witnesses were barred from voluntary participation by the State’s policy for state personnel or by confidentiality agreements with the Institute.

Therefore, our strategy, which was managed effectively by our attorney, was to present uncontroverted testimony on the historic significance of the site, as well as the failure of the Institute to show compliance with the specific cluster zoning requirements and the clear terms of the 1992 agreement. We will be filing an appeal of the decision for a de novo review of the decision by the Superior Court of New Jersey. We believe that we have developed a very strong record during the four times that we have been before the planning board, and feel that we are in a good position to overturn its decision.

We feel confident in our legal challenges and are now focusing on a “phase II” of our fundraising efforts to save the battlefield. We have developed a detailed budget for the work ahead. We are seeking donations to our Legal Defense Fund. Thus far we have raised over $36,000 and are seeking another $25,000 for immediate costs in Phase II. Donations should be marked on the memo line “for Legal Defense Fund,” and mailed to:

5TH ANNUAL WEEKEND IN OLD MONMOUTH
VISIT MONMOUTH COUNTY HISTORIC SITES MAY 5-6, 2012

The self-guided tour, A Weekend in Old Monmouth, will be held this year on Saturday, May 5 from 10 AM-5 PM and Sunday, May 6, 12-5 PM. Forty sites of every description will be open to the public free that weekend. A tour booklet and map will be available at each site and can be previewed on the Monmouth County Historical Commission’s webpage at visitmonmouth.com; click on Departments, then Historical Commission. Planning the tour will help the visitor see the most for his time and per his preferences.

The purpose for the coordinated open hours is to stimulate visitation by making available a lot of history in a single two-day period. Since the 40-site itinerary cannot be seen in one weekend, choosing one’s preferences will help make the tour more enjoyable and leave other possibilities available for another year. The simplest division, geographical, has been outlined in advance as the tour is divided geographically into three sub-tours. Each one begins near a county border. Approaching from the west, one can begin at Walnford, the historic village with an operating mill located in Upper Freehold Township. Coming from the north, Site #1 is the Steamboat Dock Museum in Keyport, also a stop on the Coastal Heritage Trail. Arrive from the south and one can begin at the National Guard Militia Museum in Sea Girt. Come early and see the fine collection of aircraft and military vehicles on the lawn opposite the museum.

The thematic tour is another approach. If you like historic houses, you can organize your own historic house tour. The same applies for museums. Several sites have a Revolutionary War tie. If churches are your preference, there are outstanding examples that date from the mid-18th century to the early 20th century. The tour also includes two of the most important lighthouses in the nation, two former one-room schools, a former industrial village (Allaire), a working mill, an active farm with live animals, two colonial taverns and the oldest medical office building in New Jersey and possibly the country. In short, there is something for everyone and a lot for most.

IN MEMORIAM—RUTH KANE FERN

Ruth Kane Fern, age 92, of Wayne died January 2, 2012 at the Seabrook Village Assisted Living in Tinton Falls. Her passing was graciously peaceful after a wonderful life journey.

She was born in Somerville to the late James A. Kane and Marguerite (Carberry) Kane and had lived there and in Newark before moving to Wayne in 1958. Ruth graduated from Somerville High School with the Class of 1937 and received a car as a graduation present from her parents. She is pictured on the right with friends Helen Holcombe (left) and Mary Masker (middle) in front of that car, which she named “Geraldine.”

Ruth attended Trenton State College where she received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in history, English and secondary school education. In 1944 she earned a Masters of English at the Graduate School of Arts and Science at New York University, and in 1953 she received a Masters in Administration and Supervision from Montclair State College. Mrs. Fern studied for her Doctorate in Education at New College at Oxford University in England as well as Bedford College at the University of London, England.

Mrs. Fern was a college professor of English and Education at Paterson State College (now William Paterson University), where she worked for thirty-seven years before her retirement in 1995. She also supervised student teachers.

Mrs. Fern was past president of the Passaic County Historical Society and the Morris County Historical Society. She was a member of Alpha Chapter Delta Kappa Gamma Honor Society for distinguished women and Pi Lambda Theta International Honor Society. She was also a member of the Washington Association of NJ.

Ruth was very active in the League of Historical Societies of New Jersey for many years, continuing to attend board meetings when she was 90 and having difficulty getting around.

She was the devoted wife of the late Wallace E. Fern (1988); loving second cousin of Mary Carberry Meek Tutko of Rockaway and her husband William, the late James Kane, and several other loving cousins.

Funeral services were held on January 6, 2012 in Wayne.
SPIRIT OF THE JERSEYS STATE HISTORY FAIR—
NEW DATE AND PLACE

Please save the date of Saturday, May 12, for this year’s Spirit of the Jerseys State History Fair! The fair has been moved to the second Saturday so as not to conflict with New Jersey History Day competition. It will again be held at the Washington Crossing State Park from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

DOVER FIRE DEPARTMENT OFFERS A HUGE GIFT TO THE DOVER AREA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Over the years, the Dover Volunteer Fire Department, organized in 1874, has collected thousands of photographs of everything from fires, emergency recues and disasters to the hundreds of parades, fire apparatus demonstrations, celebrations, and picnics, along with a case of newspaper clippings, maps, documents, and memorabilia. All these belongings were tucked away in boxes and crates for decades at the fire department’s garage, used for the storage of antique apparatus and equipment, located near the town garage on North Sussex Street.

In February 2012, current Dover Fire Chief Richard Mattison and members of the fire department decided to give the Dover Area Historical Society an opportunity to search through these boxes and crates and decide what is historically significant to the citizens of the Dover area and what items should see the light-of-day for the first time with a public display.

According to George Laurie, museum curator, “considering the amount of memorabilia being offered to the society, this project may take months before completed.”

So far, members of the historical society have uncovered photographs of Dover’s early firefighters from the late 1800s along with thousands of photographs of the various steamers and fire engines the department has owned over the years. Also found were pictures of the early hand-drawn hose & ladder trucks along with the steamer-engines that were pulled through the streets of Dover and nearby towns by teams of horses, such as Mae and Blossom.

Also uncovered so far were hundreds of newspaper clippings that reported on Dover’s numerous fires, such as the Park Union Lumber Yard fire in 1954, considered one of the largest fires in Dover’s history. Other clippings describe disasters such as the Picatinny Arsenal and Hercules Powder Depot explosions and emergency efforts like the rescue of spectators when the grandstand collapsed at the Dover Speedway, injuring dozens of spectators.

Everyone loves a parade and the Dover Fire Department had its fair share from its founding in 1874 to the present day; hundreds of photographs document parades in Dover, Boonton, Morristown, Rockaway, and Randolph, as well as apparatus demonstrations showing the public the latest technologies in fighting fires.

Uncovered so far were hundreds of documents detailing the various fire apparatus owned by the department over the years, lists of those who served as fire chief, the men who drove the apparatus to and from fires and a list of volunteer firefighters over the years.

The society hopes to seek a grant to help fund the documenting of these records and the cost of establishing an exhibit at the Dover History Museum House and possibly at the Dover Free Public Library.

Tuesday, April 24 – Essex County - Residential Electricity, Then and Now: What’s important to understand and why. A South Orange Historical & Preservation Society Program on the changing face of residential wiring. From Edison's first light bulb in 1880 to the present. Village Hall, 101 South Orange Ave., South Orange, NJ 07079; Main meeting room (2nd floor). Use parking lot entrance. 7 pm. Monica Merel, CEES LLC (Clean Energy Electric & Solar LLC) Co-author of the forthcoming business book, Secrets from the Trenches – a Handbook for New Entrepreneurs. Many homes in South Orange date back to a time when gaslights were the main source of lighting. When these homes were retrofitted to access electricity, no code requirements existed to safeguard people and property from electrical fire.
Newly invented electrical lighting systems were simply installed inside of existing gaslight supply pipes and some of these electrical systems are still in use today. Over time each generation superimposed the latest technology onto the pre-existing systems to extend live energy into almost every corner of the home. Sometimes in this process, incompatible types of electricity-carrying materials were connected together. We don't like to think about it but old wiring can be dangerous.

Learn how residential wiring should be upgraded and maintained just as heating, ventilation and cooling systems, roofs and paint jobs are maintained.

OLMSTED PARKS IN NEW JERSEY
by Jean Kolva

Olmsted Parks in New Jersey is a historic overview of the parks that the Olmsted companies created in New Jersey primarily for county parks in Essex, Union, and Passaic. Son and stepson of the creator of New York’s Central Park, Frederick Law Olmsted, Jr. and John Charles Olmsted continued with their father’s naturalistic style of landscape architecture, with 20th-century modifications, into the 1960s. Illustrated with more than 200 historic and contemporary photographs, vintage postcards, and Olmsted sketches and plans, this survey chronologically details the development of each park or reservation as it was transformed from former farmland, swamp, forest, or a previous park. Included are the gems of Branch Brook Park in Newark, Cadwalader Park in Trenton, Warinanco Park in Roselle, and Brookdale Park in Montclair and Bloomfield. Discover the Olmsted legacy in some of the most magnificent public parks in New Jersey.

NORTH JERSEY LEGACIES: HIDDEN HISTORY FROM THE GATEWAY TO THE SKYLANDS, by Gordon Bond

What do the Dust Bowl, a virulent anti-Stamp Act broadside, Sputnik 2, the birth of the commercial aviation industry, railroad communication, the 15th Amendment, and subliminal advertising have in common? They all have little-known ties to northern New Jersey history!

And, they're all in Gordon Bond’s new book, North Jersey Legacies: Hidden History from the Gateway to the Skylands, just published by The History Press.

The crossroads of the Revolution, the laboratories of Thomas Edison, World War I submarines—behind these landmarks of New Jersey history are forgotten stories nonetheless important. Few may realize the role New Jersey played in the evolution of the railroad industry in the twentieth century or the enormous contribution to civil rights made by Thomas Mundy Peterson of Perth Amboy, who cast the first vote under the 15th amendment in 1870. Chapters include:

- Dust in the Garden: The Days the Dust Bowl Came to the Garden State
- 1/3000th of a Second in Fort Lee: A Mysterious Experiment in Subliminal Advertising
- Train Talk: How New Jersey's Belvidere-Delaware RR Helped Modernize Rail Communications
- Scooping Sputnik 2: How America Learned of Sputnik 2 from New Jersey
- The Constitutional Courant: Was New Jersey's First Printer Responsible for New York's Most Virulent Anti-Stamp Act Broadsides?
- Newark Airport: Where Aviation Became an Industry
- "To Cast a Freedman's Vote": How a Handyman from Perth Amboy Made Civil Rights History

These and other accounts have been uncovered by local author and Garden State Legacy founder Gordon Bond, and despite their scarce remembrances, they have left indelible marks on the history of the Garden State. North Jersey Legacies is available (with autograph) at: http://gardenstatelegacy.com/North_Jersey_Legacies.html. Mr. Bond is available to give a presentation on Thomas Mundy Peterson.
THE EDGE OF NEW NETHERLAND, by L. F. Tantillo

L. F. Tantillo provides readers with new insight into life on The Edge of New Netherland, where two small groups of colonists — one Dutch, the other Swedish — fought to control access to the Delaware River and thus the trade in Indian furs, and later, English tobacco. Decades before British forces captured this territory in a power grab that remade colonial North America, fortifications were built and rebuilt, deals made, and settlements established.

While The Edge of New Netherland (ISBN 1461060958) examines, in beautifully illustrated detail, the broader aspects of daily life on the Dutch, Swedish, English and Indian borderlands of North America, it focuses on the history of one wood and dirt fortress. Built in 1651 by the Dutch and destroyed in 1664 by the British, Fort Casimir largely failed as a defensive bulwark, but it helped anchor the growing settlement of New Amstel, now New Castle, Del.

The Edge of New Netherland brings history to life with over 100 beautiful drawings accompanied by entertaining and accessible explanatory text.

Mary Collins writes in De Halve Maen, “Tantillo provides the reader with an evocative perspective of the early European settlement on the banks of the Delaware River as seen through an artist’s eye…Tantillo focuses on Fort Casimir as an archaeological, architectural, and artistic interpretation of a historic site and takes us through the process by which the past is visualized.”

The Edge of New Netherland is available for sale online at Amazon.com and other channels. About the Author: Trained as an architectural designer, artist L. F. Tantillo specializes in the depiction of historical struc-
Private Hercules McGraw: Poems of the American Civil War
by S. Thomas Summers

In Private Hercules McGraw: Poems of the American Civil War, Private McGraw shares his journey through the landscapes of the American Civil War. McGraw, a Confederate soldier and racist, steps into the war in order to assure that slavery will exist long enough for him to purchase a slave with hopes to impress his love, Martha. As McGraw treks through the blood and mire, experiencing both triumph and tragedy, he begins to transform into a man of peace and compassion – a man who no longer sees a black man or a white man; he simply sees a man – a fellow, a brother.

Private McGraw has garnered praise from nationally known historians and writers. “S. Thomas Summers's Private Hercules McGraw: Poems of the American Civil War is a beautiful exposé on the human condition in wonderful, flowing prose that is as naked as man and as stark as war. Most importantly, the poetry within demonstrates how that human condition evolves when a person is forcibly faced with the realities of his changing beliefs and values. Everyone interested in America's Civil War - student as well as scholar - will relish this poetic story of one man's war; and likely every reader will recognize himself/herself within its lines. — J. David Petruzzi, author, historical advisor to the television miniseries Appomattox.

As the nation commemorates the 150th anniversary of the American Civil War, the author is hoping to schedule several poetry readings so that he may share his love of poetry and history. If you think his poems might be of interest, please contact him, as he would love to visit your venue for a poetry reading. His full bio appears below.

S. Thomas Summers is a teacher/professor of English at Wayne Hills High School in Wayne, NJ and Passaic County Community College in Paterson, NJ. The author of Private Hercules McGraw: Poems of the American Civil War, Summers’s poetry has been featured is numerous respected poetry reviews and journals: The Atlantic, the Loch Raven Review, MiPo, The Pedestal Magazine, etc. Most recently, Summers was featured in New Jersey’s Civil War Odyssey, an anthology produced by the New Jersey Civil War Heritage Association and the New Jersey Civil War 150 Sesquicentennial Committee 2011-2015. Summers lives with his wife and children in the hills of Northern, New Jersey and blogs at www.thelintinmypocket.wordpress.com.
SPOTLIGHT ON OUR MEMBER ORGANIZATIONS

With our members spread across the state, many of us are not familiar with the organizations in regions far from our own. This column will spotlight our members, so that others may learn of their mission and accomplishments.

The league has many member organizations that were formed to honor or celebrate the American Revolution. This is Part III of a series highlighting those societies.

The Friends of Monmouth Battlefield, Inc., was formed in 1990 and is a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit organization devoted to preserving, protecting, and historically interpreting Monmouth Battlefield and historically related sites. The Friends group is licensed as an officially recognized friends organization (ORFO) by the State of New Jersey and is authorized to act in partnership with state government to protect, preserve and interpret the battlefield state park.

Individuals concerned with the deteriorating conditions of the state park, which opened in 1978, formed the Friends of Monmouth Battlefield in 1990. Landscapes were being overwhelmed by vegetative growth obscuring historic vistas. Historic sites and buildings were on the verge of collapse. Beginning in 1990, as a way of bringing attention to the threatened national historic landmark, the Friends initiated the annual Battle of Monmouth reenactment. This historic event is observed on the third or fourth weekend of June each year. It has become the largest annual living history event in the state.

Other programs and activities of the Friends include:

- Sponsorship of the annual “Revolutionary Days in Monmouth County” activities and programming
- “Over Here Molly Pitcher” programming.
- Regular bimonthly membership meetings on historical topics related to the battle and the park.
- Development of walking and driving tours of the Battle of Monmouth.
- Staffing of the gift shop at the Park Visitor Center.
- Sponsoring talks and programs at the park and tours of the battlefield.
- Publication of a newsletter with articles relating to the battle and information on the park
- Outreach to schools, community groups and state agencies.
- Supporting the park by donation of items such as audiovisual equipment, bicycle racks, and exhibit material.
- Enhancing the interpretation of the battle by donation of historical wayside exhibits.
- Donation of major items such as a full size replica Revolutionary War cannon, with equipage, and a working replica Revolutionary War musket, with equipage.
- Securing grants and donations for the preservation and interpretation of the parks and its historic buildings.

You can reach the Friends at P.O. Box 122, Tennent, NJ 07763; 732-951-9142; www.friendsofmonmouth.org.

The Friends of the Jacobus Vanderveer House is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization that registered with the State of New Jersey on March 17, 1998. The mission of the Friends is to restore, develop and operate the Vanderveer House property, significant in United States military history, as a nationally important historic site and an educational and community resource.

Jacobus Vanderveer Jr, son of Jacobus Sr, a wealthy Dutch miller, built a small farmhouse just west of the North Branch of the Raritan River on the northern outskirts of Pluckemin. In 1778, Vanderveer and his wife Maria lent their home to General Henry Knox, who was to command a new artillery encampment and training academy being established by the Continental Army on a hillside above the village of Pluckemin. General Knox, along with his wife Lucy and family, occupied the house from the winter of 1778 through the summer of 1779.

The Vanderveer House is now the only remaining building from that chapter in Bedminster history, as the artillery park and its academy – a forerunner of West Point – no longer stand. “It is truly a priceless piece of our history,” commented JVH President Jay Petrillo, noting that the house and artillery park are listed on the State and National Registers of Historic Places.
